

SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT

Program Website: Supply Chain Management – Hiram College (<https://www.hiram.edu/academics/undergraduate-studies/undergraduate-programs/supply-chain-management/>)

The supply chain management major is offered through the Scarborough School of Business & Communication. Responding to a critical need in the labor market, the supply chain management major will provide students with comprehensive skills to improve product flow and streamline operational efficiency. Effective supply chain management can help businesses reduce cost, increase product and profit, and improve environmental sustainability within the workplace. With courses in business, forecasting and logistics, sourcing and operations, and economics, students will enhance their written and oral communication, problem solving, decision making, and critical thinking skills, preparing them for a variety of career paths in business, manufacturing, and management. While the major provides students with a comprehensive skill set in the field, it also allows ample time for foundational business courses imperative to their long-term success. Furthermore, students will learn within the context of a liberal arts education, preparing them to demonstrate written and verbal communication skills and skills in problem solving, decision making, and critical thinking. Through two capstones, one of an applied nature in supply chain management and another of a research nature in management, students will prepare for careers in business and leadership opportunities in management. To accomplish this goal, we provide a strong ethical and analytical foundation through in-depth learning combined with a wide variety of practical experiences (on and off campus) to develop professional networks and relevant skills. Students can prepare for careers in manufacturing, project management, supply chain management, or logistics.

This major is available fully online.

Supply chain management majors will also take management (MGMT) courses to complete their major.

SCMT courses are offered through LCMC (<https://catalog.hiram.edu/undergraduate/consortial-agreements/>). To register for SCMT courses, refer to the instructions in the comments on the course schedule.

Supply Chain Management (SCMT)

SCMT 28000: SEM:: 1-4 Hour(s)

SEMINAR: ~

SCMT 28100: INDEPENDENT STUDY: 1-4 Hour(s)

INDEPENDENT STUDY ~

SCMT 30100: FORECAST & LOGISTICS: 3 Hour(s)

FORECAST & LOGISTICS ~ This course provides a broad overview of the planning and execution of customer demand. It is divided into two parts: forecasting and logistics. In the first segment, we cover the three major building blocks of logistics networks: transportation, warehousing, and inventory. After completing this section, you will be able to differentiate the advantages and disadvantages of different modes of transportation. You will understand what goes into designing and setting up a warehouse facility. Finally, you will be able to discuss the development of logistic networks that minimize costs and deliver top customer service. In the second segment, we cover planning and forecasting. Marketing supply and demand requires planning. You will master different forecasting techniques essential for building a sales and operations plan. At the completion of this section, you will have the tools and techniques to analyze demand data, construct different forecasting techniques, and discuss the most suitable one for projecting future demand.

SCMT 31000: SOURCING AND OPERATIONS: 3 Hour(s)

SOURCING AND OPERATIONS ~ This course provides an overview of sourcing and operations. It is divided into two parts. In the first part, students will learn the key components of sourcing: supplier selection, supplier segmentation, make vs buy decisions and supplier relationships. In the second part, students will learn both the Lean Inventory methodology and the Six Sigma methodology. This will allow them to improve supply chain operations. Students will have the opportunity to apply this knowledge to a product of their choosing. Lastly the course will be supplemented by guest lecturers who have significant experience in supply chain management.

Prerequisite: SCMT 30100

SCMT 38000: SEM:: 1-4 Hour(s)

SEMINAR ~

SCMT 48000: SUPPLY CHAIN CAPSTONE: 3 Hour(s)

SUPPLY CHAIN CAPSTONE ~ This course asks students to apply the skills they have learned in their business and supply chain management education to a series of challenges. In the first part, students solve challenges in logistics, operations, planning, and sourcing faced by a fictional company. In the second part, students will be tasked with addressing a real supply chain problem, and will work in groups to produce a solution which will consist of a report and a presentation. In this capstone project, students will take on the role of supply chain consultants, redesigning the existing supply chain of a consumer products company with the goals of implementing lean inventory management, and using six sigma processes to improve efficiency and allow the company to bring new products to market more rapidly. At the end of the course, students will therefore have real world experience that they can show employers as part of a larger portfolio. Students will also have the opportunity to present their final projects to supply chain professionals, which will allow them to gain an understanding of how their knowledge will interact with the real world and will serve as a de-facto screening process for a coveted role within the industry.

Prerequisite: SCMT 30100 and SCMT 31000

SCMT 48100: INDEPENDENT RESEARCH: 1-4 Hour(s)

INDEPENDENT RESEARCH ~

SCMT 49800: INTERNSHIP: 4 Hour(s)

Management (MGMT)MGMT 11800: ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR:CA: 4 Hour(s)

ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR:CA ~ This course offers an introduction to the field of organizational behavior. The emphasis will be on learning theories and vocabulary to improve your analytic ability to make sense of behavior in organizations, teamwork, and to learn how to initiate an effective course of action. To this end, you will be exposed to some of the major ideas in the field and their disciplinary foundations in economics, psychology, social psychology, sociology, and anthropology. You will be asked to apply these ideas to your own experience and to the vicarious experience of a field case study and simulations. We will cover such topics as intuition, decision-making, motivation, job design, organizational culture, personality and group dynamics, power and persuasion, innovation, social capital, and managing change, among others. (Previously taught as MGMT 21800).

Core: Social/Cultural Analysis Meth

MGMT 15500: PRINCIPLES OF MANAGEMENT: 4 Hour(s)

PRINCIPLES OF MANAGEMENT ~ This course will provide the student with a conceptual framework for basic understanding of the management functions and process including planning, organizing, leading, directing, and controlling for establishing and accomplishing business objectives. This course will provide the student a broad overview of the subject of management, application of these concepts in real world scenarios; as well as with the basic skills that are necessary in order for a manager to be effective. The objective of the course is to expose the student to the theories and principles that are important for successfully managing organizations and people; serving as basis for further management studies.

MGMT 18000: WKSP: 1 Hour(s)

WORKSHOP ~ This workshop will provide the opportunity for students to examine a special topic in Management. Through readings, discussions and written assignments there will be opportunities to evaluate the topic at issue. Workshops may be taken Pass/No Credit only. Students may take no more than nine workshops for credit toward graduation. Workshops can be used as elective credit only.

MGMT 21050: RESEARCH METHODS IN SOC SCI:SM: 4 Hour(s)

RESEARCH METHODS IN SOCIAL SCIENCES:SM ~ This course provides a broad introduction to the research methods, analysis techniques, and writing style used in the social sciences. Topics include the scientific method, ethical consideration, measurement approaches, reliability and validity, designing a research study, and basic descriptive and inferential statistics. Students will engage in hands-on experience in how social scientists conduct research, with an emphasis on methods, computational analyses, and the interpretation of data for a scientific and a lay audience. Also listed as SOSC 21000.

Core: Experimental Scientific Method

MGMT 22100: GROUP INTERACTION PROCESSES: 3 Hour(s)

GROUP INTERACTION PROCESSES ~ This course examines the complex dynamics of small group life within the context of organizational systems. Small group theory as it applies to perception, membership, leadership, norms, communication, problem-solving and decision making is explored. The focus of the course is to develop individual competence in group settings. Through a laboratory approach students are provided with opportunities to experiment with new behaviors and to improve group effectiveness. Students experience the development of a group through predictable stages and engage in critical analysis of the experiment. A group project is required. Also listed as COMM 22100.

MGMT 22200: ORGANIZATIONAL COMMUNICATION: 4 Hour(s)

ORGANIZATIONAL COMMUNICATION ~ The course involves the study of communication theory as it relates to organizations. Topics include communication systems analysis, intergroup communication, team building, goal setting, meetings, and organizational change. The course requires a field research project during which students work with actual organizations to diagnose communication systems. The course contains a significant writing component. Students will develop skill in writing proposals, letters, memos, agendas, progress reports, final reports, and executive summaries as they progress through the field research project. Also listed as COMM 22200.

Prerequisite: MGMT 11800 or COMM 22000

MGMT 22400: INFLUENCE & NEGOTIATION SKILLS: 3 Hour(s)

INFLUENCE AND NEGOTIATION SKILLS ~ Negotiation and influence skills are key components of everyday life. We negotiate daily with potential employers, co-workers, bosses, landlords, merchants, service providers, partners, parents/children, friends, roommates, and many other people. Although we negotiate often, many of us know very little about the strategy and psychology of effective negotiation. The purpose of the course is to develop expertise in managing negotiations and to understand the influence tactics so often used to persuade us (most notably among salespeople). This course seeks to increase your competence and confidence to confront negotiation and influence opportunities through a progressive sequence of simulations. Through this process we will explore your own personal style and its impact, as well as specific areas for individual development. We will encourage you to expand your negotiation toolkit and develop greater strategic flexibility across situations and people by encouraging you to try out new behaviors and strategies.

Prerequisite: MGMT 11800 or MGMT 21800

MGMT 22700: PROJECT MANAGEMENT: 4 Hour(s)

PROJECT MANAGEMENT ~ Project Management is both people and process (technical) oriented, and is a discipline where one must oversee complex, and often very unique projects to meet organization's strategic goals. Special attention will be given to understand first what a project is, and how they differ from standard processes. As a prospective project manager, organizational and management skills will be taught and developed to improve the chances of making a project successful. Project management coordinates a vast and complex network of vendors, subcontractors, project team members, senior management, functional managers, and customers. We will explain and teach how to build a high-performance project team. The goal of successful project management is to help the project stakeholders understand the role of the project within the organization. Emphasis will be on developing and mastering the project manager's tools, techniques, and interpersonal skills necessary to manage projects. Emphasis will include project proposal, commercial terms, starting, running and completion of the project along with financial analysis, closure and lessons learned.

Prerequisite: MGMT 15500

MGMT 22800: COMPARATIVE HR MGMT:EW: 3 Hour(s)

COMPARATIVE HUMAN RESOURCE MANAGEMENT:EW ~ Human resource management practices vary considerably across organizations and countries. Personnel management concerns--recruitment and retention, compensation and evaluation, among many others--are universal. However, the handling of them is generally place-specific or contextual. This course examines various core human resource management issues through a comparative lens. Therefore, students will gain exposure to personnel management practices in the United States and other countries. Through this survey of comparative human resource management practices, students will focus on three units of analysis--employees, employers, and government--and develop a working sense of how HR management is a product of complex and sometimes fluid forces.

Prerequisite: MGMT 11800 or MGMT 15500

Core: Experiencing the World

MGMT 23000: STOCK MARKET INVESTMENT I: 2 Hour(s)

INVESTMENT CLUB I ~ The emphasis of this course is understanding the stock and bond markets. Fundamental techniques for analyzing stocks and bonds are introduced and applied. Students will manage an actual stock portfolio on behalf of Hiram College. Advanced investment strategies such as short sales, margin, options and futures are also discussed.

MGMT 24000: PROF RESPONSIBILITIES:ES: 3 Hour(s)

PROFESSIONAL RESPONSIBILITIES:ES ~ Leaving the development of ethical boundaries to chance is no longer an acceptable practice. The activities of professional firms in the 2000's have fundamentally changed the expectations for the behavior of business professionals. Corporate risk management practices must now include ethics risk management practices that aim to ensure the reputation of the individuals of the firm, as well as the reputation of the firm itself, is not tarnished. The Professional Responsibilities course will provide an understanding of why ethics has become a critical success factor for firms, specific rules governing required behavior for accounting professionals, types of ethical decisions that professionals can be faced with, in the form of videos and case studies, and how ethical behavior and decision making can be guided and improved upon. Also listed as ACCT 24000.

Core: Meaning/Ethics/Soc Responsibil

MGMT 28000: SEM:: 1-4 Hour(s)

SEMINAR ~ An introduction to selected topics of current interest in management.

MGMT 28100: INDEPENDENT STUDY: 1-4 Hour(s)

INDEPENDENT STUDY ~ Open to all management majors with the consent of the instructor. It affords management majors the opportunity to design their own course of study in an area that is not currently taught. The independent study normally requires the students to write a research paper.

Prerequisite: MGMT 11800 or MGMT 15500

MGMT 29800: FIELD EXPERIENCE: 4 Hour(s)

FIELD EXPERIENCE ~

MGMT 30200: CORPORATE FINANCE: 4 Hour(s)

CORPORATE FINANCE ~ This course provides students with the foundations of corporate finance. Students apply these foundations by analyzing decisions that are made within firms and other institutions. Topics examined include risk analysis, valuation, present value concepts, debt and equity offerings, and underwriting.

Prerequisite: ACCT 22500

MGMT 31200: OPERATIONS MANAGEMENT: 3 Hour(s)

OPERATIONS MANAGEMENT ~ An investigation of the process of organizing the resources of humans, machines, and materials in the production process. Topics covered include plant location, design of facilities, choosing equipment, layout of equipment, product development, time and motion studies, quality control, and efficient decision making. Cases are used to illustrate methods of approach. The latest managerial concepts will be discussed including PERT, CPM, and other operations research techniques.

Prerequisite: MGMT 15500

MGMT 31700: SMALL BUSINESS MANAGEMENT: 3 Hour(s)

SMALL BUSINESS MANAGEMENT ~ This course examines the history of small business and the role it plays in U.S. society. It also examines the unique challenges that are presented to small-business success. The course focuses on the tasks and issues that are associated with operating a small business after start up, with a primary emphasis on day-to-day operation. Students will study strategic planning for the small business through a field case study. Other operational aspects of a small business will also be addressed; for example, accounting and financial aspects, marketing of goods and services, managing human resources, and succession planning.

Prerequisite: MGMT 15500

MGMT 32100: BUSINESS LAW I: 4 Hour(s)

BUSINESS LAW I ~ This course develops the student's familiarity with doctrines traditionally distilled as the law of negotiable instruments, agency, partnership, and corporations. This course will also deal with the laws pertaining to property protection; title protection; freedom of personal action; freedom of use of property; enforcement of intent; protection from exploitation, fraud, and oppression; furtherance of trade; creditor protection; nature and classes of contracts; interpretation of contracts; breach of contracts and remedies; obligations and performance; warranties and product liabilities; creation, management, and termination of corporations.
